This photo shows a picturesque scene of ethereal and colourful marine life swimming in the crystalline and blue ocean between all the corals and marine plants. On the right, there is a couple of amazed scuba divers witnessing this ~~best~~ beautiful scene, which is out of this world. In the foreground, there are a bunch of colourful flat fish swimming in groups of three. On the diver's hand, there is a school of small silver glossy fish exploring the diver.

Dear Max,

How are you? Sorry I haven't written to you ~~for~~<sup>in</sup> ages, but I've been busy with my IGCSE exams.

Last month, I took part in a huge charity event where ~~I~~<sup>we</sup> ran a 50km marathon to raise money and awareness for a well-known and a trustworthy organisation called (Helping People). Not only does it help the less fortunate on the streets by giving them food and more, but also helps the refugees who escaped from their countries. ~~It~~ Fortunate for you they are doing one again this week!

This marathon will take place in Sharm El Sheikh in Egypt, where many people from around the world will attend and you my friend ~~will~~ would love to attend this.

If you ask me why I chose you especially, I would say it's your love and affection towards helping those in need no matter the challenges you might face, which is the best thing about you.

Pyramids of Giza

If you ask me about a place I enjoyed visiting the most, I would say it's the great Pyramids of Giza in Egypt. Not only are they one of the most famous places in Egypt attracting millions of tourists every year, but also it is one of the great seven wonders of the world. I visited the Great Pyramids of Giza in the summer of last year, in June to be exact. Although it was as hot as a baker's furnace that day, it was one of the most magnificent experiences and it would definitely be memorable.

I did multiple things there. Not only did I get to see the Pyramids and get to know about their great history and how they were built, but also I rode a lot of horses and camels, which was quite an interesting experience. In addition, I made a picnic in front of the pyramids, which was the best view I had ever seen.

If you ask me why <sup>I</sup> enjoyed this trip, I would say it's the experience itself and to learn new and interesting facts about the greatest civilization in human history. Moreover, the people there and <sup>the</sup> tourist were really helpful and welcoming, which I really liked.

Write an article to explain how to help people in poverty.

You could explain:

- why it is important to help people in poverty
- ways to help people in poverty.

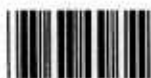

Your article should be between 100 and 150 words.

[23 marks]

Giving back

Don't you think that people in poverty need our help? In today's globalised world, people in poverty have become less and less important in our community. While the ~~rich~~ rich people strive in wealth and glory, others are living on the streets nearly surviving on their few supplies. Don't you think that maybe things have to change? Aren't they humans too?

There are many and numerous reasons on why it is important to help people in poverty. For starters, it will increase the level of living in the community. Not only will <sup>it</sup> do that by giving them their basic necessities to survive and giving them shelters, but also it will decrease the level of poverty and at the same time increase their lifestyles and give them jobs to support their families. This will change our community drastically to the best and all people will live fairly and ~~happily~~ happily.

There are countless ways to help people in need and poverty. Firstly, we could take part in charity work that raises awareness. ~~Charity work~~ This <sup>will</sup> help those in poverty as more people are aware of the hard life and misery they live in, which is truly unacceptable. Secondly, helping them by donating to trustworthy charity organisations would be great. Not only will this bring them food on the table, where they could live like normal ~~people~~ people, but also this will make them feel loved and that people really care for them.

In conclusion, these people are humans too and deserve to live a normal life where food is always available and a shelter to protect them, which is basic human necessities. If you could help them by donating at least a penny, it would drastically change their lives. Every small act counts, so start now!
